Attempt all of the following questions:

Section-I

- Q. No.01 "All historical description is based on acts of interpretation, leading to accounts which may, or may not, conflict with those offered by other tellers and other tales. History is an illusion. History must be reconstructed, deduced from the patterns of languages which share the same ancestry".

Elaborate the history of English language in the light of above statement.

(OR)

What makes English, but not any other language, a global language? Explain in detail.

- Q. No.02 Which language family English belongs to? Discuss with reference to the historical origin of English language.

SECTION-II

Teacher Concerned: Shoab A. Shah

- Q. No.01 Briefly, discuss role of English language in education outlined by Patricia Ryan and Z. Mustafa in their TED talk and newspaper article respectively.
- Q. No.02 From a minor language in 1600, English has in less than four centuries come to be the leading language of international communication in the world today. This remarkable development is ultimately the result of 17th 18th and 19th century British success in conquest, colonization and trade, but it was enormously accelerated by the emergence of the United States as the major military world power and technological leader in the aftermath of world war-II. Elaborate with references.
- Q. No.03 "Once Britannia ruled the waves, now it is English which rules them. The British empire has given way to the empire of English." (Phillipson: 1992: 01). In the milieu of aforementioned statement, discuss how language has always been the perfect instrument of Empire.

(OR)

"Once we used to send gunboats and diplomats abroad; now we are sending English teachers." (ibid: 1992: 08). Explain in the light of classroom discussion.

Q.01 Q.01. Read the following passage carefully and give the answer of the following questions. 25

Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man. And therefore, if a man write little, he had need have a great memory; if he confer a little, he had need a present wit; and if he read little, he had need have much cunning, to seem to know that he doth not. Histories make men wise, poets witty, the mathematics subtile, natural philosophy deep, moral grave, logic and rhetoric able to contend. Nay there is no stound or impediment in the wit but may be wrought out by fit studies, like a disease of the body may have appropriate exercises. Bowling is good for the stone and reins; shooting for the lungs and breast; gentle walking for the stomach; riding for the head; and the like. So if a man's wit be wandering, let him study the mathematics, for the demonstrations, if his wit be called away never so little, he must begin again. If his wit be not apt to distinguish or find differences, let him study the schoolmen, for they are eximii sectores. If he be not apt to beat over matters, and to call up one thing to prove and illustrate another, let him study the lawyers' cases. So every defect of the mind may have a special receipt.

It is believed that life is fair. It's a comforting idea. It suggests the world somehow makes sense. It even has some plausibility, as long as you don't think too hard about it. Actions have consequences. Crime doesn't pay. Hard work is rewarded by success. Except some crime does pay quite well, in fact much better than an honest job. Don't you think, stealing up strawberries or mangoes is easier than working in mines! What a luck to take birth in USA, with white skin and wealthy parents. The modern upper class will take offense at that. They'll be quick to tell you how luck played no part in their success. Whatever their career may be, they'll assure you it's no picnic. They can make a million bucks a year and still believe they're earning every penny of it. Even if their job is managing a fortune they inherited, they'll promise you it's not as easy as it looks. For the rest of us, not born into that lucky situation, the odds are getting longer every day against our ever reaching upper middle class status, regardless of how hard or long we work. So, we must ask, how life is fair? The notion has deep misunderstood history.

Answer the following questions:

1. What is idea of life is fair?
2. How would you elaborate the luck according to author?
3. Why would elite class won't agree with you for having fortune due to their luck?
4. Does author believe that hard work is always rewarded?
5. Give a suitable title to the paragraph.

Coffee is a beverage 1 (drink) by many past generations of people. What most people do not realize is that coffee is 2 (make) from beans 3 (pick) from trees.

Coffee trees 4 (grow) either from seeds or cuttings. These trees will begin to 5 (bear) crops when they are about four years old.

Workers on coffee plantations have to pick the beans by hand. After the beans 6 (gather), they are 7 (roast) at high temperatures. This process 8 (give) them their fragrance.

The best coffee is made from freshly 9 (grinding) beans. There are many different ways of 10 (prepare) coffee. Coffee can be served either with or without milk.

Q: 1 Write a paragraph of 20 lines on any one of the following (20)

- My dream for future
- The impact of fast food on our health
- Violence on Television causes aggressive behaviour in children.

Q: 2 Rewrite the following passages in your own words (20)

A) Happy is the man who acquires the habit of reading when he is young. He has secured a lifelong source of pleasure, instruction and inspiration. So long as he has his beloved books, he never feels lonely. He always has a pleasant occupation of leisure moments, so that he never feels bored. He is the possessor of wealth more precious than gold.

B) The word victory is generally associated in our minds with war, and calls up visions of battles, bloodshed, and conquest by force: and we think of war as a glorious thing because of its famous victories and splendid triumphs. But when we think of the achievements of great men—statesmen, scholars, social reformers, scientists, philanthropists, explorers, discoverers and honest workers—for the betterment of the human race and the progress and civilization of the world, we realize that the victories of peace are even more glorious than the victories of war.

Q: 3 Match a line in A with a line in B, and then mention the name of the place given below where they are present. (20)

Name of Places: Baker's department store post office railway station

8. Our train ride through the canadian rockies was fabulous.
9. The lawyer's office is located on south pleasant street.
10. My uncle lives farther south than grandmother.

Q: 5 In the following paragraph, twenty words are underlined. If you think the correct word has been used, mark the word with "C" in your answer copy. If the word is incorrect, write the correct word in your answer copy (20)

Whose going to help me out of this mess? The bank in town aloud me to borrow ten thousand dollars to buy a new car. Meanwhile, I neglected to calculate the effect this would have on my monthly budget since I had already borrowed a large some of money on my credit cards. I currently work forty hours a weak. I don't see how I could work any longer then that. Nothing can altar the fact that I haven't enough income to pay all my bills. It's difficult to figure out what I should do. I must not set back and thing the problem will go away, or else I might lose the car. Of coarse, I won't buy any new clothes this reason. I won't be chle to go out to dinet even once. Q.03. (a) List and briefly elaborate the stages of summarising.

(b) Write a summary of the following passage:

Wealth and Fertility

For most of the past century an inverse correlation between human fertility and economic development has been found. This means that as a country got richer, the average number of children born to each woman got smaller. While in the poorest countries women often have eight children, the rate fell as low as 1.3 in some European countries such as Italy, which is below the replacement rate. Such a low rate has two likely negative consequences: the population will fall in the long term, and a growing number of old people will have to be supported by a shrinking number of young. But a recent study by researchers from Pennsylvania University suggests that this pattern may be changing. They related countries' fertility rates to their human development index (HDI), a figure with a maximum value of 1.0, which assesses life expectancy, average income and education levels. Over 20 countries now have an HDI of more than 0.9, and in a majority of these the fertility rate has started to increase, and in some is approaching two children per woman. Although there are exceptions such as Japan, it appears that ever higher levels of wealth and education eventually translate into a desire for more children.
